TEACHING

Teaching Summary

I have taught 3 sections of MGT 9533: Seminar in Human Resource Management Literature, a graduate class for Management Ph.D. students. For undergraduate classes, I have taught 2 sections of MGT 4533: Advanced Human Resource Management, 12 sections of MGT 4543: Compensation Management, and 36 sections of MGT 3513: Introduction to Human Resource Management. In each undergraduate course, I employ teaching methods that use applied activities and case studies to promote student engagement and understanding of course concepts. I presented these interactive teaching methods at the Society for Human Resource Management Innovation in Teaching Conference in 2013. Overall student evaluation scores for each class taught range from 5.0 to 4.2, where 5 = strongly agree and 1 = strongly disagree.

Learning and Pedagogical Scholarship

National Conference Presentation

Cox, S. S., & Marler, L. E. Terms of Engagement: Combining Approaches to Reach Your HRM Students. Presented at the AOM Human Resources Division and Society for Human Resource Management Innovation in Teaching Conference, Chicago, IL, 2013.

Courses Taught

MGT 9533: Seminar in Human Resource Management Literature

Course Catalog Description: Discussions and presentations pertaining to HRM literature. Emphasis on understanding the empirical and theoretical research in this area and developing individual theoretical manuscripts for presentation.

Course Design: This course prepares Management Ph.D. students for their future careers. My goal is for them to gain an understanding of the human resource management literature and experience with the development of theoretical models. I place special emphasis on the peer review process often associated with academic research. To simulate the review process, student course papers received professional reviewer feedback in addition to my own. They must respond to feedback as if it were a revise and resubmit.

Selected Student Comments

- Thank you for finding other scholars to review our papers. That is very helpful. I also enjoyed the entire semester very well. I feel like I know a lot more of HR now. (Spring 2014)
- I really enjoyed the format of the class. We had great discussions. (Spring 2014)

Student Evaluation Score Summary

Semester of MGT 9533	Number of responses	Overall Evaluation Score
Spring 2014	5	5.0
Spring 2016	3	5.0
Spring 2018	2	5.0

MGT 4533: Advanced Human Resource Management

Course Catalog Description: Three hours lecture. Study of problems in the field of human resource management emphasizing development of the ability to analyze problems and to apply management fundamentals to human resources.

Course Design: Advanced HR is by my design a course in the application of human resource concepts. My objective is for students to develop a more holistic understanding of HR such that they see how HR practices fit with business strategy and employment law. Every single class period requires students to complete an activity in which they apply HR concepts. For example, students are given a job application form and required to evaluate the job relatedness of each item, indicating if the item is job related and what if any law it may violate. Another class activity requires them to forecast the number of employees a business will need to hire. They must calculate turnover to take it into account its influence on a company's human resource forecasting for future hiring needs; they also take into account the company's strategy to expand offices.

Selected Student Comments

- One of my favorite class structures at State so far! Really made the class more interactive and comfortable. Thanks for a great semester! (Fall 2018)
- One of my favorite classes. One of the few classes I've taken that give applicable real world scenarios. (Spring 2019)

Student Evaluation Score Summary

Semester of MGT 4533	Number of responses	Overall Evaluation Score
Fall 2018	37	4.7
Spring 2018	26	4.8

MGT 4543: Compensation Management

Course Catalog Description: Three hours lecture. Compensation fundamentals, practices, and problems, including wage level determinants, wage & salary structures, merit rating, methods of wage payments, fringe benefits, & controls.

Course Design: My goal is to provide undergraduate students with experience applying concepts related to compensation. I have designed activities in which they develop wage structures in class and perform a job evaluation to determine appropriate pay levels for various jobs within a hypothetical organization. To foster a more holistic understanding of the compensation function of HR, I developed a comprehensive project requiring students to conduct a job analysis and develop a job description for a job they would like to have upon graduating, then require them to use the O*Net database and salary.com to gain an understanding of not only base pay but also pay incentives and benefits. I also developed mini-cases to aid students in application of the Fair Labor Standards Act and the Family and Medical Leave Act.

Selected Student Comments

- I really enjoy Dr. Marler as an instructor. I truly believe that she wants us all to excel not only in her class but life as future business leaders. (Fall 2013)
- I really enjoyed this class, Comp. Mgt. I never thought I'd learn as much about employee benefits and compensation plans. Very informative for the future. (Fall 2016)

MGT 3513: Introduction to Human Resource Management

Course Catalog Description: Three hours lecture. Development of efficient programs for managing human resources. Emphasizes equal employment opportunity, performance evaluation, selection, placement, education, training, safety, and health.

Course Design: While teaching this undergraduate course, my classes often had over 40 different majors, business and non-business. I utilized interactive teaching methods to encourage student preparation and participation. Students were assigned discussion questions which they answered before class using their text book. I called on students during class to answer assigned questions and lectured on more difficult material and incorporated relevant outside material to ensure the students would be prepared for a modern work environment. I also developed mini-cases and in-class problems to help students in the application of management concepts.

Selected Student Comments

- I learned a great deal about HR from you. This class was really helpful and the knowledge I received is something that will stick with me for my future career. I believe that your teaching methods were very successful for me. The slides, videos, activities, lecture, etc. were all great and really helpful. (Summer 2015)
- The class activities were very useful in learning the material in greater detail. It helped me understand the material more because it took it off a page to a real experience. Activities were very helpful for learning purposes. (Fall 2014)

Outreach Service

Outreach on behalf of Mississippi State University includes cofounding the Family Business Education Initiative as well as conducting presentations for the Stennis Institute of Government and CSpire executives on topics including effective workplace communication and adapting to change in the workplace.

Family Business Education Initiative (FBEI)

- Co-founded the initiative in 2018 with Dr. James Vardaman
- Mission: Job creation is a vital part of the mission of the College of Business. Many entrepreneurs have the technical skills and motivation to start their businesses, but struggle to grow their businesses because they lack the necessary training to do so. FBEI supports job creation by providing small business owners the tools and knowledge they need to grow, such as HR/legal issues, staffing, and technology. In this way, FBEI helps entrepreneurs take the next step in growing their businesses.
- Inaugural FBEI Program: The inaugural FBEI program took place on February 7, 2019 and was comprised of three sessions. Sessions were facilitated by experts in family firms whose research has been funded by the Center of Family Enterprise Research. The goal of each session was to provide attendees with a greater understanding of management concepts as well as the opportunity to apply these concepts to their own firms.
- Session Conducted at the Inaugural FBEI: Acquiring and Retaining Talent (February 2019), Mississippi State University
